TRAINMEN EXPECT FAVORABLE TURN

Union Station Strikers Look for Concessions Within Few Days.

Employees of the Washington Terminal yards, who have been out on strike since Tuesday morning, expect a favorable turn in the situation within the next few days. George H. Nolte, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen of America, who organized the men, said last night he felt confident the company would take some steps toward investigating the charge that certain foremen in the yards had for years been extorting money from the men who struck. It was the refusal of the company to remove these foremen that caused the men to strike. The difference of opinion between the company and the union as to the number of men out on strike continued yesterday. A. M. Keppel, superintendent of the company, denied again last night that there were more than 250 men out, and added that some few had returned to work yesterday. Mr. Nolte said, however, that quite a number had gone out yesterday in addition to the 400 that were already on strike. Mr. Keppel said that there has been absolutely no interruption to train service out of Union Station thus far and that none is expected. Although special policemen have been guarding the yards of the company, there have been no signs of violence on the part of the strikers. The strikers will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in North-east Masonic Temple, Eighth and F streets northeast.

WILSON REVIEWS KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Local Commanderies Hold Ascension Day Parade and Church Services.

Four hundred Knights Templar of the District, in full dress uniform, passed through the White House grounds last night and were reviewed by President Wilson. The Chief Executive, with his aide, Col. W. W. Harts, stood upon the north portico of the mansion as the glittering Knights fled through the east gate to the west gate of the grounds. The full dress review was impressive, attracting thousands of people, who lined up outside the iron fences of the Executive Mansion. The crowd extended to Fifteenth street, drawing theater-goers on their way downtown. The Knights had three bands. All of the Templars carried swords, which were sheathed as they entered the Executive Mansion grounds. The swords were drawn, with hilts upward, when they gathered in the church of the Ascension for the religious services. Impressive Service. The ceremony of Ascension Day at the church was equally as impressive as when the parade filed by the President. The banners of the five commanderies were furled at the rostrum, seated on which were both Knights Templar in uniform and the assisting clergy. Half the auditorium was occupied by the Knights. The crowd overflowed onto the steps of the church. Rev. J. Henning Nelms, rector of the church and a Knight Templar, preached the sermon. He dwelt upon the power of Knights Templar to counteract the evil facing the younger generations of the world. Lem Towers, Jr., grand commander of the District Knights Templar, and Rev. Paul R. Hickok, grand prelate, were the principals in the parade and at the gatherings at the church and at Masonic Temple, where the parade formed and later dispersed. George J. Mueller, commander, and Rev. Edgar C. Powers, prelate, headed Washington Commandery, No. 1; Benjamin F. Larcombe, commander, and James H. McIntosh, prelate, headed Columbia Commandery, No. 2; Edwin M. Hasbrouck, commander, and William K. Reeve, prelate, headed Potomac Commandery, No. 3; Arthur C. Shaw, commander, and Eugene E. Thompson, prelate, headed Le Moyne Commandery, No. 4; and Burt A. Grid, commander, and Richard P. Evans, prelate, were in charge of Orient Commandery, No. 5.
